DEBT OF BANK AT EKSINGTON "PAID IN FULL"

Common Pleas Court Puts
O. K. on Last Dividend
Of 15 Per Cent

WILL REPRESENT
$5,216 PAYMENT

Stockholders, Also, May Receive Cash On Holdings

LEBON, Nov. 1.—A dividend of 15 per cent was authorized here today by common pleas court in the liquidation of the Kensington State bank, at Kensington, west of here.

The dividend will complete the payment of 100 per cent on all claims of depositors and creditors, as filed with the court.

The current dividend represents $5,216.44 in cash. Previous to this, a total of 85 per cent had been distributed among claim holders.

It has also been indicated that stockholders will later receive a dividend, some indicating that this will be more than 50 per cent of the stock held.

Stock and bonds still held in excess in the bank are said to be increasing in value, all of which, according to attorneys, after the closing of the institution will result in little, if any, loss to stockholders, now that all depositors and creditors are being paid in full.

City Hall Lumber To Improve Park If Issue Carries

City officials reminded the citizens of Salem again today that the approval of the $50,000 bond issue at the election next Tuesday to provide for the erection of a new city hall will also mean improvement of Centennial park.

Material obtained from the present structure, if the issue wins the required 65 per cent vote of the people, would provide improvements to the city park such as shelter sheds, bleachers for the baseball team, caretaker's quarters, new benches, high screens for the tennis courts and additional park facilities, a committee of city council members.

Officials of the Public Works administration have advised City Engineer S. S. Barckhoff of the possibility of using the scrap lumber from the present city hall for the purpose, at no extra cost to the city.

They said that Salemites would give their unanimous approval of the bond issue on Nov. 5, city council recently prepared a resolution providing that the lumber from the present city hall would be converted into Centennial park projects.

"No!"—Miss America

Miss Henrietta Leaver

When the Pittsburgh artist who sculptured Miss Henrietta Leaver of McKeesport, Pa., "Miss America of 1935", sought to exhibit his work, Miss Leaver refused to give her consent. She also refused to appear in a nudist sketch in a Broadway musical demanding that her contract guarantee her rights in this respect.

LAYDEN HOPING 'FOR LOW SCORE'

Figures State Won't Beat
Notre Dame by More Than "40 Points"

(By Associated Press)
COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 1.—A hungry squad of 48 Notre Dame football players arrived about 10 a. m. this morning, delayed more than two hours by the wreck of another train.

Coach Elmer Layden of the Irish was extremely pessimistic concerning the outcome of Saturday's game with Ohio State.

"Our only hope is to hold down the score to 40 points," he added.

Power Is Shut Off; Salineville Dark

Salineville, Nov. 1.—This Columbiana county village was plunged into total darkness Wednesday night when village councilmen ordered the electric power shut off.

Oil lamps and candles, used in former years, were resurrected by the residents.

The village solons ordered the Ohio Power Co. to cease extending electric current to Salineville because the village already owes an electric bill of $10,000. The councilmen refused to sign a new contract for another 10-year period.

The power company, however, stood by ready to light the homes again.

LEGION, STORES GIVE 52 AWARDS IN MARDI GRAS

Costume Wearers March
On State St., After
Judging

ANNUAL EVENT
TERMED SUCCESS

Mother Nature Shakes Up
Houses As A Final
Touch

East State st., was literally rained with corn Thursday evening—Halloween night—and confetti fluttered down from upstairs windows as costumed celebrants joined in a lengthy parade as the feature part of the annual mardi gras, sponsored by Charles H. Carey post No. 56, American Legion, in cooperation with Salem merchants.

It was termed a grand success, too, when the festivities had come to a close.

The parade moved at 7:45 westward from Vine ave. on East State st., to South Broadway and back again. The streets were lined and jammed with hundreds of persons from Salem and neighboring sections.

At the American Legion home a total of 53 prizes were awarded to the participants in the parade for their unusual costumes. The parade was led by the Salem High school band.

South Broadway was reserved for a street dance but the boys and girls, men and women, seemed too eager to go about making noise, and smearing each other with grease and paint.

One drugstore did a sell-out on an order of cheap makeup material, which soon found its way onto the faces of willing and unwilling customers.

Private parties also were held in homes. A bingo party was held at the American Legion home following the parade.

Mother Nature contributed an unannounced bit to the Halloween program in a series of earth tremors which shook houses and rattled windows about 1 a. m.

Prizes were awarded to the following:

Dorothy Galchick, Little Red Riding Hood, $1 in mdse., Art the Jeweler.

Donereta Compf, Kewpie, $3 in mdse., W. S. Arbaugh.

Fred Kopp, Largest Santa Claus, sack of flour, A. & P. Ellsworth ave.

Isabelle Sprowl, comic wheeling baby, sack of flour, A. & P. East State st.

Ross Vengling, best colored gentleman, $1.50 in mdse., George J. Bunn.

Phillips Has Been Pretty Good Mayor In Spite of Democrats, Non-Partisan Says

"Panicky Efforts to Grab Hold of Mayor's Coat Tails", Cited by Citizen Who Voted for Him

A tax payer and public spirited citizen who has observed council proceedings closely and who asserts he voted for Mayor Norman Phillips two years ago, today authored a public letter in which he alludes to "their (the Democratic party) panicky efforts to grab hold of the mayor's coat tails, and 'assume unto themselves any and all accomplishments'."

The letter follows:

"Editor, The News.

"To one who voted for our present mayor, the present dilemma of the Democratic party is amusing.

"Their panicky efforts to grab hold of the mayor's coat tails and assume unto themselves any and all accomplishments is extremely funny to one who has sat on the sidelines and watched the drama which has been unfolding itself during the last two years.

"Several facts pertinent to the subject are still fresh in the minds of Salem citizens. Let us forget, just look at the records:

"1.—At the first meeting of council, Mayor Phillips suggested combining the office of safety and service director and saving the city $300 yearly. Did the Democratic party and Democratic members of council throw their hats in the air and back him up? No—Not a single one voted to sustain him. He stood alone.

"2.—Mayor Phillips submitted his appointments to council for ratification. Did the Democratic members of council rush to ratify the appointments? No—Not a peep and a Republican member of council was forced to withdraw his motion to ratify because of opposition abetted by the Democratic members of council.

"3.—Mayor Phillips proposed to operate the office on a part time basis, saving the city about $1,300 during the two years. Did the Democratic party applaud and back him up? Again, No—They climaxed their affirmation of love and esteem for the head of the party by staging one of the biggest fiascos city hall has ever witnessed.

"4.—Did they at any time demonstrate by word or act any desire to help the present mayor during the first 12 months of his administration? No one ever heard of it.

"Is it a fact that during the first 12 months, Mayor Phillips was unable to counsel with his council members because of their attitude?

"Did the Democratic members of council offer their cooperation to the service director after refusing to ratify his appointment? No—They used every pretext to put him on the spot until it reached the point where he rarely attended council meetings or submitted a report.

"Now they would have us believe the Democratic party had effected such great savings in the operation of the disposal plant and they have waited until election day to tell us how they esteem our mayor and his safety director.

"No, boys, you have waited too long. The facts just don't fit into the pretty picture you have painted.

"Why not be good sports and admit that Mayor Phillips has been a pretty good mayor IN SPITE OF the Democratic party.

"A NON PARTISAN."

CITY PLANNING TO START STATE ST., WORK SOON

Project Is Released By Government As Part Of WPA Program

40 OR MORE MEN
TO BE EMPLOYED

Bricks to Be Torn Up and Replaced Block At A Time

Work is expected to be started early next week on the improvement of East State st., between Lincoln and Ellsworth avenues, released by the government yesterday as a Works Progress Administration project.

City Engineer F. S. Barckhoff announced today that material for the job will arrive on the scene shortly and that two shifts of between 40 and 50 men each will be called.

Taken From Relief

The workmen will be obtained from the city's list of relief clients. Between 60 and 75 men were taken from the relief roster last week for work on the North Ellsworth ave. sanitary sewer project, released by the WPA, which allotted $14,280 for the job.

Work Block At A Time

"The improvement of East State st., which calls for the removal of the present bricks with the addition of new ones, where needed, will be worked a block at a time," Engineer Barckhoff said today, "in order not to block traffic on the heavily-traveled thoroughfare."

Besides local automobiles, motorists passing over Routes 62, 14 and 45, are routed through downtown Salem on East State st.

A new sand bed will be laid for the bricks the engineer pointed out. Asphalt will be used in sealing the bricks.

The city has availed itself of a $6,907 grant in federal funds for the East State st. job. The city's share of expense will be $1,938.

Approximately 500 feet of eight-inch sanitary sewer have been laid on the North Ellsworth ave. project, Barckhoff announced today. Work on the job was started Monday.

PREPARE JOBS FOR WORKABLES

County Receives Orders
To Put Relief Clients
To Work

All "workables" now on relief rolls in the county are to be employed not later than Nov. 18, it was revealed today by F. H. Wyatt, WPA director for Columbiana county.

Records show that 2,469 men are eligible for employment, 910 of this number now being engaged on numerous WPA projects.

Wyatt has received instructions to place 350 men on projects Nov. 4, and a further order to place 1,250 men on project payrolls on or before Nov. 18.

Delivery of material and equipment is holding up several of the projects in the county, Wyatt said.

Within the last few days eight projects have been released in the county by the district office at Canton, including the two-story brick dormitory to be erected at the County Home. This job is expected to start Monday, giving employment to 37 men.

Due to seasonal conditions, it is said, several road projects that have been approved, will be delayed in starting.

Sturdy Buildings Swayed From Albany To Buffalo; Secretary Roper's Aid Thrown

Salem felt the effects of a strong earth tremor which shook all of Ohio shortly after 1 a. m., frightening thousands of persons but doing little actual damage.

Many residents were awakened from their sleep by the quake. The heavier sleepers, however, knew nothing of the incident until told about "an earthquake here" this morning.

At hotels, here the tremor aroused guests from their beds, and one man fled from one building in his night shirt. He moved his car, which he thought was parked too near the building, police and firemen said.

And, it was quite some time before the hotel management could convince the thinly-clad guest that he should come back to bed.

Local residents told of their homes creaking and shivering during the tremor. All of Columbiana county suffered much the same experience, a checkup showed.

MAYOR'S COURT TAKES IN $1,408

Fines, Licenses, Other Income Produce High
Figure

Receipts of Mayor Norman Phillips' court for the month of October reached a new high when a total of $1,408.10 was taken in on fines and miscellaneous fees.

Total fines received were reported today by the mayor at $1,225.10; costs, $140; licenses, $38, and miscellaneous receipts, $5.

The police court receipts were boosted last month when police nabbed 11 motorists for driving while intoxicated, 12 other persons for intoxication and six for reckless driving.

In addition, Police Chief Ralph Stoffer today announced arrests for October, which totaled 38, as follows:

Driving with fictitious license plates, 2; moral offense, 1; failure to stop in case of an accident, 1; failure to obtain a bus operator's license, 1; possession of liquor, 2, and intoxication and disorderly conduct, 2.

During October city police answered 126 calls and complaints, Chief Stoffer said.

Mass Production Benefits Listed By Kiwanis Guest

Z. C. Kline, superintendent of the General Electric plant at Niles, addressed Salem Kiwanians at their luncheon Thursday noon at the Memorial building. Mr. Kline, who was introduced by Lewis Smith, talked on mass production and its effects on the economic and social conditions in the country.

He pointed out that mass production formerly brought out goods inferior in quality to goods produced by other methods but that at present the qualities of the two types of production are equal. Mr. Kline used the increased production of electricity to illustrate a point in favor of mass production. He said that the greater development of electricity brought about cheaper rates with unimpaired quality permitting a wider use of current.

Seven new members were voted upon and accepted yesterday during the business session. A directors meeting was announced for Monday evening. G. W. McKee and Dan Pearson will entertain the group. The place is to be announced later.

Former Senator Lewis To Deliver Talk Here Tonight

City Solicitor Lozier Caplan, chairman of the Young Republican club of Salem, has completed arrangements for a public meeting tonight in the Memorial building at 8 o'clock.

Former Senator Earl Lewis of St. Clairsville, a leading figure for several years in the Ohio assembly, will be the principal speaker.

RETAIN HIS SERVICES

When K. L. Webster became city auditor on Jan. 1, 1932, Salem had a bonded indebtedness of $921,546.91. In the ensuing four years that amount has been reduced by $277,404.86, leaving a bonded indebtedness to date of $644,082.05.

Much of this reduction was effected during the first two years under a Republican administration, the balance during the last two years under a Democratic administration. During both administrations Auditor Webster has cooperated with other city officials, and he has had their cooperation.

Neither party can claim a great deal of credit for this improvement in the city's financial position, because it was brought about largely as a result of Webster's knowledge of financial affairs, his ability and efficiency his close application to the particular job of trying to do just what has been accomplished.

In his modest way, Auditor Webster does not claim all the credit. He recognizes the assistance and cooperation given him by other city officials of the two administrations under which he has served. He knows that he could not have done such a good job without their help, and they willingly admit that they have been dependent upon their auditor, not alone in reducing the city's bonded indebtedness during a period when the city's income was at a minimum, but in the preparation of their budgets and appropriation bills, and general guidance in financial affairs.

With a great sacrifice of income due to reduced property valuations, reduced tax rate, greatly reduced tax collections and the loss of five mills in tax limitation, the city of Salem has been fortunate to have as city auditor a man of Karl Webster's experience and ability. It cannot afford to dispense with his services now.

UNEVEN CONTESTS

Football, roughest of games, is constantly forced to be on the defensive against the charge it is unreasonably dangerous. For years, rules of the game have been changed to increase its safety, but annually there is at least one period of trial, during which there is fervent discussion of the need for further improvement.

One of those periods of trial is in progress. Two Ohio players have been killed within a week. Eighteen deaths have been caused by football accidents since the beginning of the season. Again, the game is being forced into a defensive position by criticism. Is football unreasonably dangerous, or isn't it?

Potentially, it is a dangerous sport. Actually, it is as dangerous as it is played. Everything possible has been done by means of rules to keep football safe. Obviously, however, the safety of football cannot be determined by rules. There must be good judgment to accompany the rules.

For instance, there is no rule which says two football teams of unequal ability should not play against each other. There is no rule which says a boy should not be asked to play against an opponent much heavier, stronger and more skillful than he is. There is no rule which says a player should not take advantage of his own superiority over an opponent to handle him more roughly than necessary.

There is one type of accident in football which is avoidable, therefore. No player should be injured merely because circumstances require him to be the victim of an uneven contest. Moreover, no player physically unfit to endure the rigors of competitive football ever should be injured; he shouldn't be permitted to play in the first place. When coaches, officials and all others responsible for the conduct of football games become willing to refuse to tolerate contests in which one team has insurmountable advantages, there will be fewer injuries and fewer deaths in football. Perhaps the possibilities of rules have been exhausted. But good judgment scarcely has been drawn upon yet in the campaign to make football a safer game.

THE STARS SAY

For Saturday, November 2.

A particularly lively and eventful day is forecast from the prevailing planetary configurations. The emphasis may be found on the social, domestic or romantic functions, with the possibility of an intrigue of great moment in the latter. This affair may precipitate a radical change in the environs, interests and associates. But the menace of deception or misrepresentation in correspondence calls for discretion. Friendship and sentiment rule the day.

It is Your Birthday

Those whose birthday it is may find themselves launched in a year of romance, sentiment and friendship. Elements of intrigue may be sensational and call for a complete change in the life, associates and surroundings. Discretion is enjoined and care is urged in all writings.

A child born on this day may be given to sensational love affairs. It will be gracious, affectionate, cultured and charming.

O. O. McINTYRE
NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

NEW YORK, Nov. 1.—Thoughts while strolling. The ladies do not wear furs these days—they fairly drip them. All the current dancers, even Astaire, could learn something of grace from Nick Long, Jr. Add curiosa: A menu without the word "sizzling."

What's become of A. C. Blumenthal? Nobody can whine up their voice like Una Merkel. Best non-professional dancer: Esmond O'Brien. Frank Case's name for a derby. A hard hat. Few establishments maintain the dignity of Tiffany's. Wonder if Jed Kiley knows Ned Riley? Two peas in a pod—Frank Craven and John Golden.

Look alike: Monty Bell and Gary Cooper. Cole Porter riding a fresh popularity. Dance-a-jig word: Parallelepiped. Now we have to go through that night of Hauptmann's electrocution. Grandest name of all football stars—Ted Coy. You know so much—what are skittles without looking it up?

Park avenue sartorial: Theodor and his morning coat, lapel poney and ledger-ruled trousers. The drug store where the clerks change to tuxedos at sundown. The apartment house where elevator operators wear buckled knee breeches and the starter a drum major's high fur hat.

Sid Solomon mincing out of the Sherry-Netherland in his mignon way. And Dwight Fiske heading for vesper hour soloing. Impossible portraits: Irene Bordoni without bangs. That sunny knoll opposite the Piazza. That's what I need. To sit on a knoll and get sun-glinted.

On an outskirts the other evening a mud-splattered gypsy van was pulling into a filling station. Lettered in white on the side was "Zogo, the Clown." In the driver's seat a drooping fellow, a forlorn Pagliacci. At a window the curtains parted and there appeared the face of a frowzy tramp, red-eyed, with a cigarette hanging from her lower lip. She peered sleepily out, blinked, yawned and was gone. The very tag end of the old wagon shows, and one could not resist the obvious murmur, "What a life!"

Beatrice Herford, sister of Oliver, is in town after a two year exile in the country. Miss Herford and Cissie Loftus, friends from childhood, were a number of years ago the most expert mimics of America and Europe. Perhaps still are. Incidentally, the Oliver Herford exhibit of published originals and water colors drew a crowd recently and a brisk sale is reported. But too late to ease the last harassing hours of the shy and gentle soul whom England looked upon as America's foremost wit. And American friends forgot.

Barney Gailant, after 15 years of catering caper to uptown stayouts exploring Greenwich Village, is again salivating patrons in the sparkling new cafe belt spreading from 5th ave. in the Fabulous 50's. Barney expected permanently to retire when he gave his Village auberge to his headwater, but after a year of knocking around the world came back, saw the dawning of another night club era, and went scampering over the horizon to greet it.

I came from the Winter Garden a recent night in the depths of a dolor. A favorite rowdy comedian was on the bill but they hadn't done right by him. I refer to Herb Williams. He was shorn of his piano act, the one where he throws out anchors, draws glasses of beer from underneath, looks into the distance with hand-shadowed eyes and utters those curdling cries. And that climax when he whangs the key board with an axe and the cat hops out and ambles across the stage. That act should never die.

An authoritative story of Fritz Scheff and her most popular song, "Kiss Me Again." As all know, the song was written by Victor Herbert especially for her. Several days before the premiere he played it over and she did not care for it. A temperamental cyclone resulted. She thought the range too great. He was adamant. Oscar Hammerstein, seeing a postponed opening, suggested compromise. She would sing it the first night and if it did not click it would be tossed out. Puttantly, she agreed. The rest is history. She sang the song and stopped the show for 13 minutes. After many encores the actress yelled for Herbert and, taking Fritz's hand, he advanced to the footlights. When quiet came, the actress looked up coyly at her composer and cooed "Kiss me again!" He did, and they were fast friends until his passing.

OUR READERS

WANTS ROADS FIXED

Living in Hanover township, I see by the paper that several of our neighboring townships are receiving money from the government for road purposes. I wonder if by any chance our trustees are asleep or laying down on the job.

Very little has been done to our roads, and in my neighborhood, nothing at all to talk about. Several of my neighbors and myself have at different times tried to get some work done on our road, but to no avail. Our Hanover township trustees do not seem to agree very well on the subject of road improvement.

Our trustees do not seem to be inclined to do much in this end of the township. When we talk to one he claims to be willing to fix the road but tells us the other two are fighting against it. When we talk to another he claims it is up to the state to help on this road, because the lake water is on both sides of the road for a distance of about 500 feet. His answer is wait, wait; but weight breaks the wagon down.

Next week is again election and two trustees are running for reelection. Here is hoping that after the election they will keep on running.

We still have the right to vote or whenever we see fit and on November 5 is our chance to do so.

Of course I realize that by electing different trustees we may not get any more done on this road, but it is impossible to get less.

I have had about seven or eight cards from candidates for election. I wonder where you live and fail to know who you are.

We also have been given to understand that we on this side of the lake have opposition against improving the road from people other than the trustees.

Here is hoping that we may have men in the trustees office for the next two years who are willing to give this end of the township at least a fair deal.

HEALTH

By Dr. Royal S. Copeland
New York City

EVERY JOINT is surrounded by a cap or sac, called a "bursa." It contains a fluid, which is provided to lubricate the joint and permit free movement.

Frequently a bursa becomes inflamed, perhaps because of a fall or blow. This may result in a form of inflammation, spoken of as "bursitis," of an annoying and disabling affliction. It may involve any joint of the body, but the knee-joint is most commonly affected. Inflammation of this joint produces a symptom which has caused it to be called "water on the knee." Since the disturbance is frequently encountered among housemaids who scrub floors, it is sometimes referred to as "housemaid's knee."

Like all other acute inflammations, bursitis is painful and annoying. As a rule it follows an injury, like a bump or blow. Hard pressure from any cause may lead to inflammation of the bursa.

The joint becomes red, swollen and moderately warm. Any movement is painful. Sometimes the pain may be so severe as to prevent bending walking or even standing. It seriously interferes with sleep, and prolonged of an opiate.

Don't Confuse It. Do not confuse bursitis with rheumatism, neuritis or arthritis. The pain of bursitis is severe and prolonged, not intermittent. There is the history of some trauma, fall or blow.

Never neglect bursitis. In the acute form it is best to have the involved joint placed in a comfortable and well-padded splint. If the knee joint is involved it is well to remain in bed. When the shoulder or elbow joint is inflamed, crowded and narrow passages should be avoided to prevent any accidental blow to the inflamed area in mind that neglect of bursitis may lead to permanent deformity of the joint. Infection may occur, too, and in that event require operation. This is not likely to respond to simple forms of medication. The sufferer has considerable pain and discomfort and permanent relief can only be had by means of surgery.

Any acute injury of a joint is best treated by fixing the part so it won't bend and to give it complete rest. If relief is not obtained within twenty-four hours, the doctor should be called. Even if the acute symptoms subside quickly, certain measures should be taken to prevent future disability.

Answers to Health Queries. M. V. H. Q.—Is face cream containing ammoniated mercury harmful to the skin?

A.—If the cream contains no harmful ingredients as specified by law, there is no danger.

FEEL FINE. Mothers read this: A CONSTIPATED child is so easily straightened out, it's a pity more mothers don't know the remedy.

A liquid laxative is the answer, mothers. The answer to all your worries over constipation. A liquid can be measured. The dose can be exactly suited to any age or need. Just reduce the dose each time, until the bowels are moving of their own accord and need no help.

This treatment will succeed with any child and with any adult. Doctors use liquid laxatives. Hospitals use the liquid form. If it is best for their use, it is best for home use. And today, there are fully a million families that will have no other kind in the house.

The liquid laxative generally used is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. It is a doctor's prescription, now so widely known that you can get it all ready for use at any drugstore.

Mr. and Mrs. John Stratton, Mrs. Elizabeth Jones and Mrs. Paul Jenkins were in East Palestine Tuesday morning attending the wedding of Miss Magdalen Garthwaite and Neil Smith, both of East Palestine.

The wedding was solemnized by Rev. Fr. Hyde at 9 a. m. in the East Palestine Catholic church. Attendants were Miss Mary Keeler and Regis Smith, brother of the groom, both of East Palestine.

The ceremony was performed before an altar banked with yellow and white chrysanthemums. The bride was charming in a gown of blue crepe made with long bell sleeves and high neckline. Her accessories were brown and she wore a lovely corsage of Tullman roses. The bridesmaid wore a brown ensemble with a corsage of white roses.

A wedding dinner was served following the ceremony at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Catherine Garthwaite. The bride's table was appointed in white with white chrysanthemums forming a center decoration. Tall white taper candles lighted the table where places were arranged for relatives of the couple and a few close friends.

After a short wedding trip they will be at home to friends in their home on Clark st., East Palestine, where the groom is employed by the Isaly Dairy Co. Both young people are graduates of the East Palestine High school.

LISBON VOTERS STUDY ISSUES

Levies for Village and Township Schools On Ballots Tuesday

LISBON, Nov. 1.—Levies for the Lisbon and Center township school districts will add interest to the voting Tuesday.

The Lisbon School district is asking a three mill levy outside of limitations, to be continued until the new foundation program goes into effect Jan. 1. Until this state-wide school program is functioning, schools here need the three-mill levy, it was said today by O. C. Caldwell, president of the local board of education.

Hope For Approval

In the Center township school district, approval of a two mill levy is sought next Tuesday. One year ago, voters approved a levy of 4.70 mills. Because of the reduction in the millage, it is believed the proposed levy will be approved.

Interest in the village municipal ticket is increasing as the election approaches. There has been much apathy in the village contest during the last fortnight.

Candidates on the Republican ticket are:

Mayor, G. Cecil Rauch; Clerk, Kenneth Hiscok; Treasurer, Helen V. Blackburn; Marshal, Dalton E. Pike; Member of council, six to elect, Clarence L. Robinson, Charles H. Baker, Roy E. Patterson, Clarence W. Ball, Gerald V. Ellis, Harry G. Arter.

Col. Lynn Black, superintendent of the state highway patrol, said 45 motorcycle officers and 10 patrol cars would be concentrated within a 25-mile radius of Columbus.

Black said the patrol would endeavor to keep traffic at a lively but safe and sane pace.

"Our policy always has been to cooperate with rather than hinder the motorist in reaching his destination and that policy will continue," Black added.

TROY, O., Nov. 1.—Derailment of two cars of a freight train delayed for several hours this morning a train carrying the Notre Dame football team to Columbus. The derailment occurred at a junction at Bradford, 10 miles northwest.

LISBON, Nov. 1. — Car loadings on the Erie railroad between Chicago and Hornell, N. Y., showed an increase of 13 1/2 percent during the last week in October, the largest volume of business for one week since 1929, F. W. Rosser, general manager of the Western Division of the Erie railroad, told members of the Kiwanis club here.

"Business is showing a decided upward tendency," Rosser said.
"Railroads are regaining passenger business. Freight business is increasing, and it is my opinion that we have turned the corner."

shake at first, and that later the whole building shook.

A new crack in the plaster of the Auditorium hotel in Cleveland was noted by hotel officials. Several of the older buildings in Cleveland also bore cracks.

In several Cleveland hotels guests arose and donned their clothes when their beds began to quiver. In the Hollenden the gas supply was shut off by engineers.

At Youngstown small objects fell from shelves in two apartment buildings. At the United States
Airway station near Fremont meteorologists reported that a pendulum maintained in a laboratory swung more than half an inch.

Call Police

Hundreds of persons in Akron called police headquarters in the belief there had been an explosion.
Many persons were awakened in Conneaut. Several guests at a hotel in Wellington ran into the street in night attire.

Prof. J. J. Nassau, of Case School of Applied Science, said the last noticeable quake in northern Ohio occurred August 1929. A severe shock rocked the state March 1, 1925, at 9:24 p. m. On July 11, 1930, Marion felt a mild tremor. Bellefontaine felt shocks March 9, 1929.
Southern Ohio was shaken Sept. 21, 1931.

Today's tremor, however, was one of the most widespread in the history of the state.

Vets Will Observe Forget-Me-Not Day

Shifting of the local burden of providing for destitute disabled veterans to the federal government is emphasized in a statement received by R. J. Burns, local chapter commander of the Disabled American Veterans of the World War from National Adjutant, Vivian D.
Corby, of the D. A. V., reading as follows:

"If a disabled veteran whose disabilities were actually caused by military service has not legally proven that fact to the satisfaction of the Veterans Administration, then he and his family become a burden upon the local community in which he is residing.

"If such a disabled veteran is enabled technically to prove the service origin of his disability, the burden of his care is then transferred from the local community to the federal government and he is thus converted from a community liability into a community asset.

The disabled vets will hold their annual forget-me-not day tomorrow.

Check Counterfeit Rumors

The ticket situation was clearing up. Rumors that 2,000 counterfeit ducati were to flood the city were checked by detectives without result. The influx of visitors sent the prices for scalpers' tickets back up.
The scalpers were quoting single tickets at $10, and blocks proportionately higher.

Coach Francis A. Schmidt of the Bucks came forth with his usual pre-contest statement: "It looks like a tough game."

A crowd of more than 80,000 will see the game, the greatest throng to invade the Ohio stadium since the Michigan-Ohio clash in 1926 when the attendance soared over 90,000.

Hungry Visitors

KANSAS CITY, Nov. 1. — The halloween party given by the Hills Home association to keep the children out of mischief was too big a success. Some 500 persons came to the bonfire, the sandwiches and apples.
"Too many heard about the party," said Director Mrs. Charles Clark. "They weren't just children

OHIO AWAITING MILD COLD WAVE

Temperature Marks Expected To Tumble Shortly To Possible Low of 26 Degrees Tonight

(By Associated Press)
COLUMBUS, Nov. 1.—A mild-cold wave is sweeping into Ohio.

William H. Alexander, Ohio weather chief, predicted that temperature marks would tumble to a possible low of 26 tonight.

"The cold condition that over-spread the northwest several days ago will arrive here late today," Alexander said. It already has reached Indianapolis.

Alexander reported there was a possibility of light rains in the western portion, but that snow was unlikely.

Temperatures for Saturday's football contest between Ohio State and Notre Dame, the outstanding grid attraction of the country, will be under 40 degrees, Alexander added.

"It'll be a fine, clear, fair day for the game, but a little bit chilly," the weatherman predicted.

He said the cold spell would last about three days.

Walker Says That Politics Are Of No Interest Now

(By Associated Press)
NEW YORK, Nov. 1.—A police guard kept an eye on Jimmy Walker's hotel apartment today—just as in the days when he was mayor.

Walker and his wife were seen after their tumultuous welcome home.

"All I want is two able seats on the Isle of New York," Walker replied to queries about his plans. He repeated that he is through with politics.

Mrs. Walker—the former Betty Compson—also declared she would not go back to her one time profession, the stage.

"Being a wife is sufficient job for a woman," she said. "I love children; that's what I want most."

The Walkers, who returned from a three-year sojourn in Europe yesterday afternoon, reached their suite after a flying wedge of police men had rescued them from a cheering throng at the pier.

A freight elevator completed their escape, but after driving to their hotel behind a police siren, they faced another crowd estimated at 1,200 persons.

24,840 Killed By Machines In U.S. Within 9 Months

(By Associated Press)

CHICAGO, Nov. 1.—Automobiles killed 24,840 persons in the United States during the first nine months of 1935, the national safety council estimated today, a reduction of 1 per cent from the 25,000 deaths in the same period of 1934.

The number of deaths in Ohio was given as 1284 in 1935 against 1151 in 1934.

Milwaukee Law
Milwaukee had the best record among cities of more than 500,000 population with 43 dead, a death rate of 9.6 per 100,000 of population on the basis of the nine months report.

Other leaders were: Cities of 250,000 to 500,000, Providence, R. I., 11 dead, death rate 5.7; cities of 100,000 to 250,000, Fall River, Mass., 3 dead, death rate 3.5; cities of 50,000 to 100,000, Mount Vernon, N. Y., 1 dead, death rate 2.1; cities of 25,000 to 50,000, Pensacola, Fla., Central Falls, R. I., and Burlington, Vt., all with no reported deaths.

The council estimated that if the nine months trend continues throughout 1935, this year's toll will be approximately 35,600 compared with 36,000 for 1934.

Reductions in the 1935 total to date as compared with the 1934 record were reported by 23 states.

PREDICTS NEW EARTH SHOCKS

Eastern United States Feels Tremors, Scientists Announce

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK, Nov. 1.—Earthquakes caused by a geological stimulus of 35,000 years ago shook the eastern section of the United States today and a scientist predicted more shocks would come.

"It can be recorded as certain," said Dr. L. Don Lee, Harvard university geologist, "that there will be following shocks; some may be small, some large; We don't know how large."

Damage along the eastern seaboard was slight, although thousands of persons fled their homes as they felt beds buckle under them, chairs along the floor, and saw pictures shake on the walls in the early morning hours.

Pressure Adjustment
Seismologists seeking the cause of an earthquake in' reputedly "earthquake-proof" Gotham d.s. covered it happened a split-second ago as geological time is reckoned.

Dr. Chester A. Reed, of the American Museum of Natural History, said "the earthquake was one of those instantaneous reactions that the earth makes to adjust the pressure on its surface."

"Instantaneous," he said, "may not be the word for it as modern speed is reckoned, but to the earth, thousands of years are but a geological second."

"Since the great glacier that once covered all this region retreated there have been many upsurges. Just north of here along the New York-New Jersey state line, there has been a rise of 100 feet; around Albany the surface is now about 400 feet higher; and at Quebec it is 1,000 feet."

Other earthquake experts throughout the east agreed with Dr. Reed's analysis of the disturbance that awakened, among others, President Roosevelt at his Hyde Park, N. Y., home, almost in the center of the affected zone.

Man, Woman and Boy Die Today In Suicide Agreement

(By Associated Press)

CLEVELAND, Nov. 1.—A workman found three persons dead from poison gas in an automobile here today and police expressed belief they died in a suicide pact.

The victims were a man, a woman, and a boy about 15 years old. An identification card in the man's pocket bore the name, T. E. Davis, 1215 N. 7th St., Phoenix, Ariz.

Hose Attached
The death dealing gas had reached the interior of the car through a long line of garden hose, one end of which extended through a recently-cut hole in the floor, while the other end was attached to the exhaust pipe. The motor of the car was running.

Edward Jackson, employed in the construction of a new post-office substation on Cleveland's east side, discovered the tragedy when he walked over to a tar-heating furnace at the edge of an adjacent parking lot.

Jackson, finding the windows of the car were shut and covered with steam, opened one of the doors and saw the bodies.

The man who died was sitting behind the steering wheel, with his right arm over the shoulder of the slender woman, also dead, by his side. The body of the boy, whose cap was pulled down over his face, was on the right side of the car.

The woman, police said, was about 38 years old and the man about 42.

No other members of the crew were injured and all were taken aboard the Ormidale without panic, Petersen's condition is not serious, physicians at the General hospital here said.

"Petersen was in bed at the time of the crash," the captain said. "The bow of the Ormidale crashed into the Viator and missed his bunk by an inch. The door of his cabin was smashed and he had to be taken from the wreckage."

Theater Attractions

With a wealth of historical detail as a foundation, the old life of Pompeii has been brought to the screen by Merian C. Cooper in "The Last Days of Pompeii" to be shown at the State theater tonight and Saturday.

The story concerns a young blacksmith, who, in 20 years, rises from mediocrity to become the richest and most popular man in Pompeii. When early poverty costs him the lives of his wife and child, he sets out to make money his god. Sacrificing all ideals, he becomes a professional gladiator, slaying for money. Horse-stealing and slave-trading swell his fortunes, and he becomes finally head of the arena, staging spectacles in which thousands are slaughtered for the amusement of a bloodthirsty populace. Then, although wealthy and powerful, he discovers that he cannot save his beloved adopted son who has transgressed the Roman law and has been sentenced to death in the arena.

As the grief-stricken Marcus helplessly watches the boy go down fighting at the head of a group of slaves pitted against captive barbarians, Nature takes a hand. The earth is convulsed by a shattering earthquake. Vesuvius is seen to strike, raining destruction on a panic-stricken people fighting madly to escape from the trap of crashing ruins. It is in this hour that Marcus gives his life in atonement for his ruthless career.

"The Last Days of Pompeii" portrays a powerful theme. Riches and power avail a man nothing, for happiness can be attained only by consideration of others.

Lending male roles in the picture are played by Preston Foster, Alan Hale, Basil Rathbone, John Wood, Louis Calhern, and the boy, David Holt.

The Grand theater tonight and tomorrow is showing William Boyd in "The Eagle's Brood". This is another picture of Hopalong Cassidy and his adventures from the series by that name.

13 MAJOR HIGH SCHOOL TEAMS ARE UNBEATEN

Massillon Is Included In Top Four Ranking Teams

(By United Press)
COLUMBUS, Nov. 1.—Thirteen of the major ranking scholastic football teams are unbeaten and scheduled for the season goes into its eighth month of play.
With Canton McKinley, the 1934 champion, out of the title race, the teams in widely separated sections are the chief contenders for the 1935 championship. The top ranking quartet is composed of Massillon, Sandusky, Steubenville and Hamilton.

In the next group, only a shade behind the teams placed in the first division are Dayton Oakwood, Akron, North, Mansburg, and Piqua. In the third group are Painesville, Massillon, and Piqua. In the fourth group are Painesville, Massillon, and Piqua.

Football Hot-bed
Massillon located in a section which is a hot-bed for high school football, has hung up a remarkable record in six games to date. The Tigers, coached by Paul Brown, have scored 307 points against Akron, Cleveland, Shaw, Portsmouth, Barberton, Youngstown South and Alliance. Their goal line is unbreached.

Another Fine Team
Steubenville, which annually produces one of the outstanding high school teams in Ohio, has another year of its fine eleven. Steubenville's victims have been Columbus Central, Duquesne Prep of Pittsburgh, Tiffin Junior Home, Canton McKinley, Moorehart, Ill., and Wade Lathrop.

Hamilton, long a dominant figure in southwestern Ohio, has seven victories. The team has been scored on but once, Springfield turning the trick last week while losing 34-0. Other teams to fall before Hamilton have been Cincinnati, Massillon, Hartwood, Columbus Aquinas, Westwood, and Western Hills all of Cincinnati.

Mansburg is another school with a long winning streak. The team beat Sidney over the weekend for its 28th victory in a row. Its other victims this season have been West Hamilton, Dayton, Fairmont, Franklin, Troy and Xenia.

GLASS REMAINS AS TOP SCORER

Scores 24 Points Last Week To Lead Big Six Race

Scoring 24 points in a game against Alliance High last Friday, Bob Glass, Massillon High fullback, assumed a commanding lead in the individual scoring race of the Northeastern Ohio Big Six League. Running his season's total to 75 points, Glass holds a 25 point lead over his teammate, Edgar Herring, who is in second place.
Prior to the Alliance game, Glass held but a two point advantage over Herring. Jake Gillom, another Tiger, is in third place with 48 points trailing Herring by two points.
Though Glass is setting a deadly scoring pace he is far behind the mark of Henry Krier of Massillon leading scorer of the league a year ago. In his first six games last year, Krier had reached the century mark in points.

Quakers to Play Big 6 League Tilt

Other County Schools Will Be Active Saturday

Swinging into the last month of the 1935 football season a full schedule of games face Columbiana county teams tomorrow.
Salem High's Quaker gridgers will trek to Niles. East Liverpool's Pottery invade Martins Ferry. East Palestine meets Sebring. Letonia tangles with Louisville. Columbiana is host to Newell, W. Va., and in a strictly Columbiana county battle, Lisbon will engage Wellsville.

All of these contests are to be played Saturday afternoon.
Favorite
With victories over East Palestine and Wellsville in the last two weeks and an early season win over Struthers to its credit, Salem will meet Niles in a Northeastern Ohio Big Six league game tomorrow afternoon as somewhat the favorite. Niles has so far this year scored wins over Painesville and Struthers.

The contest will get under way at 2:15 p. m. with H. C. Wagner of Warren, Harry Wieck of Canton and Jack McPhee of Youngstown handling the officiating.
Salem High school faculty manager, Fred Cope, announced today that admission prices at Niles will be 20 cents for students and 35 cents for adults.

The Quakers have gone through a week of serious workouts in preparation for tomorrow's battle and Coach Lew Smith, who before coming to Salem last year was gridiron mentor at Niles, is more than anxious for the victory.
The game will be the 18th meeting of the two schools and the only inter-league contest of the Big Six this week.

Tie For First Place
Deadlocked for first place in the Tri-County league, East Palestine and Sebring will meet at East Palestine Saturday.
Both East Palestine and Sebring are undefeated in league competition, each having won three games. The winner of this contest will probably go on to the Tri-County league championship.

East Palestine trimmed Minerva last week 24-12 while Sebring had defeated the same team, previously 30-12. Both teams have lost to Toronto and both have topped Lisbon.
The teams are no doubt as evenly matched as any two in the district.
Louisville will be attempting to avenge a 14-0 defeat of last year when it entertains Letonia.

Won First Victory
The Letonia gridgers won their first victory of the season last week by downing Mineral Ridge 32-0.
The Columbiana high school gridgers enter the last phase of their season this week, there being only one game remaining on the schedule after they play Newell, W. Va., tomorrow.

Defeated in two Columbiana county games so far this season, Lisbon is the "underdog" as it invades Wellsville.
The Tigers defeated East Palestine 27-0 while Lisbon lost to the Bulldogs 12-0.
Wellsville dropped a 3-0 verdict to Salem last week while Lisbon tripped Boardman 13-0.

East Liverpool will be attempting to break a 13-year-old "jinx" when it meets Martins Ferry. The Pottery have never in the history of the two schools gridiron engagements scored a victory.
On the basis of performance so far this year, the Martin's Ferry lads appear the strongest. An East Liverpool victory would be an upset.

Number One Assignment

Being the only eleven conceded a chance to halt the "scarlet scourge" of Ohio State university, Coach Elmer Layden's Notre Dame gladiators are faced with the number one gridiron assignment of the current season when they line up against the Buckeyes at Ohio Stadium Saturday.

The betting over most counters favors the Buckeyes with the odds hanging around 8 to 5. However, reports have circulated, that in some spots even money is all that's asked.

Although Notre Dame is given more than a chance for the victory in the opinion of many of the dopesters, all of its possibilities are surrounded by "ifs". Without a doubt the burden of proof as to who has the superior gridiron machine rests with the Irish since the Buckeye gridgers have been hailed as the mythical national champions from way back early in the season.

Forecasting the outcome from here, 155 miles from the scene of the action, and still endeavoring to be unprejudiced, which incidentally is mighty hard to do, my vote goes to Coach Francis Schmidt's Buckeyes.
However, to be safe, I'll place the following "ifs" around this prediction.

Should the heralded Irish backs, Pinney, Shakespeare, Layden, Elser, Carideo and Wojchowski be the first to get under way Saturday, the outcome of the game will probably be contrary to my prediction.
The reason is obvious. By gaining so much as even a one touch-down margin, the Notre Dame lads will put up everything including the newly constructed bleachers at the stadium to maintain the strength of their forward wall and keep their goal line uncrossed.

The Irish backs will have found that the "scourge" are no touch-down to deal with and the result will find the Buckeyes fighting in the shadow of their own goal line most of the game.
It boils down to this. If the Irish get the jump on the Ohio warriors, the chance of a Buckeye victory is similar to that of a snowball maintaining its compacture in a blast furnace.

A feeling that Notre Dame will score first is no doubt well-founded. The Buckeyes, so far this season, have been slow in getting started and every team they have played has marked up a score.

Whether they will continue this policy Saturday is a problem for the gridiron psychologists.
Largest District
When the Salem High school cross country team invades Columbus for the state meet, either Nov. 9 or 16, it will be representing the largest district in Ohio.

The state is divided into six districts with two teams representing each district, except in the case of the southern half of the Northeastern Ohio district which is permitted to send three teams to the meet.
Salem as the winner of the district meet will be the official representative of this southern section with Akron East and Barberton as the other two teams.

Ace Prophet
If your afflicted with the habit of attempting to pick the winners of the leading collegiate football games, you can find plenty of problems in tomorrow's contests.
Honors for being the ace prophet

Two Irishmen
The "fighting Irish" of Notre Dame will start one and possibly two Irishmen in their football game against Ohio State Saturday. Jim Martin, right guard, is the proud son of Erin virtually sure to be in the starting lineup. The second is Mike Layden, brother of Coach Elmer Layden.

New High
The ladies of the A. A. A. broke their own high-three game bowling score at the Masonic Temple alleys Wednesday night. Their new high is 1836 pins.

Barker Picks Ohio State To Whip Notre Dame Tomorrow

Takes Buckeyes On Theory That They Have Greater Scoring Strength and More Deceptive Attack

By HERBERT W. BARKER
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK, Nov. 1.—Spinning the coin on this week's football schedule:

OHIO STATE-NOTRE DAME: The football "natural" of the year, a collision between two undefeated and untied arrays, a genuine toss-up despite the prevailing odds in Ohio State's favor. The Buckeyes have superior man-power but no one ever accused Notre Dame of being short-handed. We'll take Ohio State on the theory that the Buckeyes have the greater scoring strength, the more deceptive attack and that they lose little by comparison with the Ramblers on defense.

Picks U. C. L. A.
U. C. L. A.-CALIFORNIA: The far western equivalent of the big fuss at Columbus, a battle of undefeated teams. Californians six opponents have scored only one touch-down against the Golden Bears so far but it looks as though U. C. L. A., paced by sensational Chuck Chesire, can break through enough to win. U. C. L. A., by a whisker.

YALE-DARTMOUTH: Earl Blak's Indians from New Hampshire have the guns to win but they've got to beat the Yale bowl jinx as well as a strong Eli aggregation. Playing the law of averages, Dartmouth to beat Yale for the first time in history.

LOUISIANA STATE-AUBURN: Those plainsmen are plenty tough but L. S. U. gets the nod.
FORDHAM-PITT: No eastern team has beaten Pittsburgh since 1928 and doubt is hereby expressed that Fordham can turn the trick.

MICHIGAN-PENN: Michigan out-licked Columbia a week ago and will take a lot of beating. A ballot for Penn just the same.
PRINCETON-NAVY: That Princeton powerhouse started rolling last Saturday and looks too strong for Navy.

ARMY-MISSISSIPPI STATE: Ralph Sasse has brought forth the team that walloped Alabama but the vote here goes to Army.
HARVARD-BROWN: After spending three weeks on defense against Holy Cross, Army and Dartmouth, Harvard ought to get a little practice on offense in this one.

TEMPLE-MICHIGAN STATE: Reserving the right of appeal, Temple, shakily.
VILLANOVA-DETROIT: Villanova to reverse last week's result.
MINNESOTA-PURDUE: Minnesota, in the face of storm signals.
NORTHWESTERN-ILLINOIS: Northwestern, on the basis of the

She even picked Carnegie Tech to defeat Purdue and that's "picking fat".

Teams In Last Drill For Game

Irish, Bucks Workouts Today Will Be Light

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 1.—Rehearsals over the cast for the country's No. 1 football drama gathered here today.
Notre Dame and Ohio State are rehearsing the four-score actors, all aspirants for the role of "star" at the premiere at Ohio stadium Saturday afternoon before an audience of 80,000 fans.

The Irish from South Bend, unbeaten in five games and confident of adding the high-flying Bucks to their list of victims arrived in Columbus, O., Nov. 1.—The Ohio State-Notre Dame football game Saturday will be broadcast by the National and Columbia broadcasting systems, the Mutual (WLV) system, the university's station, WOSU, and WSBT at South Bend, Ind.

Ohio's capital early this morning, Coach Elmer Layden brought an official party of about 40 for the crucial fray. On the outcome hang the national championship hopes of each team.

The South Benders were taken to St. Charles seminary for a slugging test, but were scheduled to go through some final limbering up exercises late today at the Buckeye stadium.

The Bucks, too, planned to work out lightly today, then go to the Columbus Country club, far from the noise of the merry-makers, for the night. Thursday afternoon the Bucks just romped through a practice session, concentrating on defense against Notre Dame passes.

Both teams will present all-star lineups. Ohio will offer 11 of last year's lettermen in the starting lineup, while nine of the Irish regulars earned their spurs a year ago.

"Jumping Joe" Williams, the Barberton sophomore who has scored eight of Ohio's 24 touch-downs this season, will be the Bucks' "ace in the hole." The flashy runner will be kept on the sidelines at the start for two reasons.

Constant Threat
The first is that Williams will be a constant scoring threat, even when on the bench. He has not yet failed to score when tossed into the game. The other is that Coach Schmidt wants to see just how tough Notre Dame is before taking a change on Williams' defensive play.

Barberton flash, conceded one of the greatest runners Ohio has boasted in years, has not yet proved his defensive caliber.
Bill Shakespeare, Irish left half, is the invading ballplayer the Bucks are watching. The thing they fear most is his super-educated toe—he rates as the middle-west's outstanding punter.

Along with Shakespeare, Notre Dame will present a classy backfield with Fred Carideo at fullback, Wallace Fromhart at quarter, and Francis Layden at the other half. With that array of talent behind a line like Notre Dame's anything can happen.

All the backs are adept passers, and Elmer and Peters, ends, and the Irish have a great pair of pass receivers. It is through the air that the invaders are expected to put up their greatest threat.

Weight Advantage
Ohio will have a slight advantage in weight in the line, while Notre Dame has the edge in the backfield. Over all, Ohio has a total of 19 pounds the better of it, an average of about one and one-half pounds per man.

Coach Francis A. Schmidt of Ohio, who admitted after practice Thursday that "this looks like a pretty tough game," will string along with the same lineup he has used in the four previous games. Wendt and Rees will be at end, Hamrick and Harre at tackle, Karbacher and Smith at guard, Captain Homer Jones at center, Heckin and Boucher at the halves, Pincurs at quarter, and Antenucci at fullback.

BIG TEN RACE COMES TO BOIL IN TITLE TILTS

Championship Boiling To Be Done At Columbus

By WILLIAM WEEKES
Associated Press Sports Writer
CHICAGO, Nov. 1.—The Big Ten's football championship brew, a mixture of national and conference title ingredients, comes to a boil tomorrow.

The national championship boiling, of course, will be done at Columbus, O., where the "Scarlet Scourge" of Ohio State, unbeaten and not seriously pressed in four games, steps out in an effort to prove it is just as potent as people have been saying it is, against Notre Dame. The Irish, also undefeated, have been pressed, but so far have had what it took to withstand the pressure.

The 87,000 spectators in the big horseshoe stadium figure to see every bit as much of a battle as they expect.

Rousing Struggle
Up at Minneapolis, Minnesota, battling for at least a piece of the Big Ten title, and not altogether free of national championship notions, meets Purdue. The Boilermakers no longer hope for more than a share of conference honors since losing to Carnegie Tech last week, but may be expected to give the Gophers a rousing struggle.

Minnesota will be favored, but not by much. The Boilermakers defeated Chicago and Northwestern in their two conference starts, while Minnesota whipped Northwestern in its only league game.

Iowa, victor over Illinois in its first Big Ten assignment, seeks to maintain a title pace against Indiana at Iowa City. The swift, rugged Iowans appear to be strong enough to make it two victories, but are pretty certain of having their hands full. The Boilers have been threatening to upset someone, and tomorrow may see them doing it.

Something at Stake
There will be no championship business involved when Illinois and Northwestern clash at Evanston, but each eleven has something at stake. The Illini will be taking to the comeback trail, while Northwestern, beaten by Purdue, Ohio State and Minnesota, has improved in every game, sees the spot for a first Big Ten victory of the season.

Michigan renews its rivalry with Pennsylvania in the intersectional game of the program, but will tackle the Easterners with one eye on its conference tussle at Illinois next week. Chicago and Wisconsin, which meet Ohio State and Purdue, respectively, a week hence, have open dates.

that the invaders are expected to put up their greatest threat.

Ohio will have a slight advantage in weight in the line, while Notre Dame has the edge in the backfield. Over all, Ohio has a total of 19 pounds the better of it, an average of about one and one-half pounds per man.

Scores 24 Points Last Week To Lead Big Six Race

Scoring 24 points in a game against Alliance High last Friday, Bob Glass, Massillon High fullback, assumed a commanding lead in the individual scoring race of the Northeastern Ohio Big Six League. Running his season's total to 75 points, Glass holds a 25 point lead over his teammate, Edgar Herring, who is in second place.
Prior to the Alliance game, Glass held but a two point advantage over Herring. Jake Gillom, another Tiger, is in third place with 48 points trailing Herring by two points.
Though Glass is setting a deadly scoring pace he is far behind the mark of Henry Krier of Massillon leading scorer of the league a year ago. In his first six games last year, Krier had reached the century mark in points.

A Review of the Day's News
—By Arthur Brisbane—

IT IS announced by Mr. Johnson, assistant secretary of commerce, that government will spend $100,000,000 building airports "in every state of the nation." Something must be done to put to work 3,500,000 "employables" by December 1.

Airport building might include building parallel highways from ocean to ocean and from north to south, with airplane landings, properly lighted, adjoining the highways at regular intervals.

Seven hundred and fifty airport projects have been approved, work will start on 250 at once. This might all be very convenient for foreign war planes if the United States should continue to neglect air defense.

IN ITALY, "meatless Tuesdays and Wednesdays" take you back to our big war days when America mothers were told not to give sugar to their children because somebody in Armenia needed it.

Italian mothers may find comfort in interesting experiments by the distinguished Dr. Alexis Carrel, of the Rockefeller Institute. Dr. Carrel, experimenting scientifically with 40,000 mice, all inbred, brothers and sisters being mated, and practically all alike found that a little sugar increased the mouse intelligence.

Smaller, more intelligent mice were born when they were never allowed to have quite enough to eat. But what they did eat had to be the very best of food.

Read Dr. Carrel's admirable new book, "Man, the Unknown," just published by Harpers. It will tell you many things about yourself that may surprise you.

MRS. MINA MILLER EDISON, 69, widow of Thomas A. Edison, marries Edward E. Hughes, 73, retired steel manufacturer. Best wishes and congratulations to both.

If Edison could know about it, he would say:

"I am glad that my widow is happy and will not spend the rest of her life with thoughts concentrated on a shadow."

Any man who would forbid his widow to marry again, if she could do so happily, may be classed with the primitive Hindu who insisted that his young widow be burned alive with his corpse when he died. You may thank England for stopping that.

Voltaire in his "Zadig," presented a plan to stop the funeral burning. The young widow was to spend her evening, before the burning, with the handsomest youth in the village. She never turned up for the burning ceremony.

FOUR IN New York won $147,000 each on lottery tickets when "Commander III" won the Cambridge-shire race. One winner was a Negro tailor in Harlem, another a grave digger in the Borough of Queens.

Statistics show that winners of such prizes usually move from humble habitations and abandon humble ways of living.

Later statistics of which you never hear, would show the majority of them moving back where they started, with millions of new foolish geese wasting money on tickets and hopes.

Try the classifieds—a gold mine of value.

Chicago Mayor Bans Stage Hit

Spurred on by the indignation of the theatrical world against the decree of Mayor E. J. Kelly, inset, banning the Chicago showing of "Tobacco Road", stage hit, producers launched a legal battle to set aside Kelly's decree. Kelly's statement concerning the play as "blasphemous and indecent" was dismissed as "prejudice" by defenders of the drama. "Tobacco Road", a story of the southern "poor white", has played to packed New York audiences for nearly two years. A scene from the play, which stars Henry Hull, is shown above.

She Says Officer Did the Resisting

KANSAS CITY, Nov. 1 — Betty Ann Painter, pretty "Little Theater" actress, stopped by a motorcycle officer, protested, ejected, flattered, smiled—all to no avail. She went to the station.

"She was doing 45 miles an hour, and—said the officer, remembering,—"resisted."

That was too much for the dainty prisoner.

"Oh, no," she retorted. "You did all the resisting."

THE HOME KITCHEN

By Jeanette Young Norton

EVERY DAY the housewife is learning more about cooking in advance, cooking part of a meal at least one day ahead.

There are so many short-cuts in laundry and cleaning work that it is only fair that she should learn cooking tricks as well. This idea of cooking in advance as much as possible is a positive boon not only to the housewife but to the business woman who is wise enough to eat at home, even if she does have to do her own cooking.

Of course, advance cooking would be an impossibility without automatic refrigeration. Menus must be planned in advance because of the marketing. If you plan in advance you can make use of perishables purchased at bargain prices, for these will keep in your refrigerator.

Utilize Jar
Returning from market, the vegetable may be prepared for cooking—the carrot scraped, peas shelled, and beans strung and placed in tightly covered jars, the jars being equally fine for leftover cooked foods. Strong-flavored foods and foods likely to go dry may be wrapped in the specially-prepared papers for that purpose, that are now on the market.

Tomatoes, scalded when fresh from market and stored unpeeled, will keep beautifully. Salad greens should be trimmed, washed, put in a dampened cloth bag and stored in the refrigerator. Dampened parsley will keep for weeks in a closed jar.

Cool potatoes and other cooked foods before popping them into the refrigerator. Cook extra vegetables, serve them hot the first night, and have enough over to cream, to reheat, to use in croquettes or fritters, or to use cold in salad. Don't ever cook too great a quantity. Figure out the needs of your family, their favorite vegetables and foods, and then plan accordingly.

Gelatin Is Help
Gelatin is of tremendous help in preparing food ahead. One package of lemon gelatin will yield enough to make a Waldorf salad as well as a lemon-flavored Bavarian cream. Many a wise cook uses gelatin for her ice box cakes and finds a splendid improvement in this sweet. Aspic gelatin is excellent for molding in vegetables and meats.

When using the oven for a roast it is a nice idea to make some individual custard to be served as dessert with stewed fruits later in the week. Plan to make real use of the oven, whenever it is lighted. These are only a few of the ideas that wise housewives use when preparing meals in advance and we are sure that you can think of many more.

EGGS FORM such an important part of the diet that it behooves us to know as much as possible about them, their preparation, cooking and serving.

The introduction to the correct preparation of eggs and egg dishes is, of course, the knowledge to test the age of an egg. Here is a method often used by chefs: Fill a glass two-thirds full of fresh, cold water, add a pinch of salt and place the egg in this solution. If the egg is all that it should be, it will remain at the bottom of the glass. If past its first youth, it will rest with the big end raised higher than the small one. The higher the big end is raised the older the egg.

Poaching of Eggs
Everyone should know how to poach eggs perfectly for eggs prepared this way are often indicated in the diet of an invalid or convalescent patient. Heat salted water to the boiling point in a shallow pan. Break one egg at a time into a saucer and gently slip it into the water. Add one teaspoon of vinegar cover tightly and allow to boil until egg is set. Remove egg with perforated skimmer onto a piece of buttered toast.

Poached eggs serve as the basis for many delicious dishes. Here are some variations which may help you when ordering luncheon dishes. For eggs benedict, place a slice of fried ham on a toasted English muffin, put a poached egg on top, and cover with Hollandaise sauce. Italian eggs call for the poached variety served on top of cooked spinach, covered with cream sauce and grated cheese sprinkled over it.

Two southern variations include poached eggs served on flat, round croquettes of sweet potatoes, covered with chicken cream and Dixie eggs made by placing poached eggs on corn fritters and covering with country gravy. Both these make grand luncheon dishes.

Eggs Chicago call for poached eggs on toast with a covering of fresh mushrooms stewed in cream, while eggs Boston on the menu mean that the chef will place poached eggs on codfish cakes and cover them with a cream sauce. Another variation on the pleasant theme of poached eggs includes poached eggs placed on fried tomatoes, covered with a rich cream sauce.

GARDEN CITY, S. D.—A small sea which has been evaporating for more than 20,000 years still exists near here. Medicine Lake, according to state geologist E. P. Rothrock, has no outlet and all water running into it remains to evaporate, leaving behind mineral content.

Today's Pattern

WRAP-AROUND GIVES SLENDER LINES

Pattern 2271

If you're a "forty-eight" or thereabouts, you're probably interested in finding a neat, comfortable house frock with a slim line as you demand in a better dress. Seek no further, for here is the handiest of house frocks—a wrap-around that you can slip on in the morning, and tie into place as you run down stairs to put the kettle on. It's easy as A B C to make, too, with your Anne Adams Instructor before you, and it's best in the morning, gingham or broadcloth. Carefully placed darts assure a snug and slender waistline, and a smooth line between the shoulders.

Pattern 2271 is available in sizes 14, 16, 18, 20, 22, 24, 26, 28, 30, 32, 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46 and 48. Size 26 takes 4 1/2 yards 36-inch fabric. Illustrated step-by-step sewing instructions included.

Send fifteen cents (15c) in coins or stamps (coins preferred) for this Anne Adams pattern. Write plainly name, address and style number. Be sure to state size.

Important to send for your new Anne Adams Pattern Book for Fall and Winter! It pictures the newest styles and glorious new fabrics and shows how you can outfit yourself and your family—easily and inexpensively. Gives pattern—designs for lovely gifts, and tells how to look more charming by suiting your clothes and accessories to your own personality. Price of book, 15 cents. Book and pattern together, 25 cents. Address orders to The Salem News Pattern Department, 243 W. 17th St., New York, N. Y.

New Private Loans Are Urged by U. S.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 1.—Believing the general period of distress has passed, the administration intensified its efforts today to encourage private capital to re-enter the lending field and replace government loans.

Peter Grimm, assistant secretary of the treasury, was assigned to the task of trying to get private lenders to take up government building and housing loans when they mature and need refinancing.

LOVE DENIED

by LOUISE LONG AND ETHEL DOHERTY

SYNOPSIS

To offset the gossip attendant on the notoriety accorded the marriage of her fiancé, Kent Damerell, to the supposedly dying Cora Manning, his former sweetheart, Sharlene Standring, young California society girl, marries Stuart Pennington, a struggling, young artist. Kent had granted Cora's plea that they marry, both believing she would die, but Cora recovered. Sharlene's thoughts are all of Kent, but she tries to be fair with Stuart and tell him she wants to be a real wife to him. He says he can wait for her love. Sharlene enters into a life of gaiety to forget... and the faithful Stuart follows, trying to shield her from serious harm. One night Sharlene goes to Stuart's room. He does not hear her enter. Sharlene finds him with his head on the table, arms outstretched, and fingers clenched. She realizes then the silent battle Stuart is fighting because of his love for her and chides herself for being unfair.

CHAPTER XX

Sharlene decided to treat this as sensibly as she had the money complex. She moved into the moonlight and stood looking down at him with a shadowy smile. Still he did not hear her. Then she turned and lifted her hand to the curtain, stretching up on tiptoe, not quite reaching it.

Stuart sat up suddenly and saw her there. "Hold it!" he whispered. "Don't move!"

He was feeling in the drawer of the table for pencil and drawing paper. Startled, she had dropped her arm at his first word and turned to him in bewilderment. Then at his look of disappointment she understood.

"Oh, I see—you want to draw me. I'll do it again." She reached for the curtain and held the pose, laughing at herself silently. She had intended to be so noble and condescend to be a wife. But—she was only interested in her as a work of art! She was a little piqued as well as amused, but not at all hurt as she would have been if she had loved him as she did Kent.

In complete absorption, he drew in the lines of her lovely body, poised on tiptoe, reaching, silhouetted against the moonlight, veiled in the diaphanous chiffon of her night gown.

Stuart threw down his pencil abruptly and sighed. "I didn't get it—the elusive mystery of a moon-beam—" He jumped suddenly to his feet and came to her, gathering her into his arms. "Sharlene—loveliest!"

His lips found hers. She hadn't been mistaken after all! She clung to him and found she liked his eager embrace.

In the morning, when she struggled up from profound depths of sleep, Sharlene did not remember Stuart at first. She was so filled, so saturated with dreams of Kent Damerell. Kent's face, smiling, pleading, adoring, pale with love, had hovered over her all night. She awoke to a surge of great happiness, such as she had not known for weeks. She lay for a moment, dazed with pure joy, soaking in it, sinking into it with all her being—gratefully, humbly.

Then came the inevitable awakening. The shock, the disappointment, the old pain creeping back. Involuntary, crushing, stifling! She flung out her arms and cried aloud. "Stuart!" She turned her head remorsefully, but her husband's head was not on the other pillow.

"Dear Stuart... Dear, blessed, tender Stuart... What infinite sweetness and tenderness!"

If Stuart were only Kent—no, no, she must not think that! But oh, to be able to respond to love—Oh, Kent, Kent, darling, darling!

Agonized weeping—for the second time in her life. She found time to be thankful, even as the sobs tore from her tortured throat, that Stuart was not there this time to see her distress.

An hour later, quiet, self-possessed, dressed for their ride, she sought him down on the beach.

She found him lying, face down, on the sand. He lay very still, but there was something forlorn in his pose. She stood near him and hesitated to speak, looking down at him anxiously. Her heart smote her guiltily. Had he guessed?

Yes, Stuart knew that he had failed to drive out the specter at the marriage feast. He had hoped so much for the time when Sharlene should come to him—of her own volition. He thought he might teach her to love him—then, but he knew now that when she held him in her arms, she was thinking of Kent. The thought was intolerable! But he must be patient, perhaps it was too soon—

"If only she did not hate him this morning..." Sharlene moved away some little distance. Then she called out, trying to sound casual: "Oh, Stuart! Where are you?"

That gave him time to collect himself. He rose quickly from the sand and went to meet her. He looked at her anxiously. She did not meet his eyes, but she squeezed his hand frantically. That was reassuring.

"I forgot to tell you—we're riding with the Army at ten. You'll have to hurry to dress."

"Oh, all right. You're ready, aren't you?" She stood in her jodhpurs—slender, gallant, young. She met his eyes bravely at last, and there was only tenderness there.

"Look, Stuart, I've been thinking. The Shinyo Maru sails for the Orient tomorrow. Let's go!"

"Wh-what?"

"Please, dear. It would mean so much to you. This mystic quality of yours will gain by contact with that ancient culture. Great works will come of it—"

"Do you care, Sharlene—about the great works?" He smiled whimsically at her.

"Of course I do! But I'll be honest about this—I want to run away again."

"Do you still want me—to run with you, Sharlene?"

"Yes, yes!" She clung to his hand. "I need you, Stuart!"

"All right. We'll run just as far and fast as you want to. And now I reckon I'd better get ready for the Army."

"I'll wait here," Sharlene sank down on the sand.

As Stuart hurried toward the hotel, he came upon Forrester sitting at work, absorbed in transferring to his canvas the pearty morning light across the jade sea.

"Hello!" Stuart stopped short, his fingers itching, longing for the feel of the brushes. The old man looked up briefly and grunted, then went on working.

"I hear you married a rich wife, Pennington."

"Yes."

"There was a long pause, while Forrester smeared color across his canvas."

"What are you going to do next?"

"We—we're going to the Orient."

"I see... Well, I'll bet right now that you'll never do another honest stroke on canvas."

Stuart's jaw tightened and his blue eyes flashed. But he did not answer. He would prove, concretely, that prophecy false—when Sharlene would quit running—away.

The flight of Sharlene and Stuart over Asia was like the rest—less dashing of humming-birds. Never stopping for more than a sip of that ancient culture Sharlene had held out to Stuart as a lure. Always whirling madly to some particular place to meet people—to dine and play bridge and dance, and ride and converse gaily.

And then dashing on to the next place to meet other people—and dine and play bridge and dance and ride and converse gaily.

To Stuart, who loved humanity, this skimming the surface of human relations was disappointing. Here and there, in passing, he saw a face that held him, a rich personality which might have been of priceless value to him. But there was never time to know anyone—even Sharlene!

He said to her one day, "Sharlene, did you ever try the fun of just sitting still and doing nothing?"

His wife looked at him indignantly. "I don't dare to; I don't dare contemplate what a mess life is."

He flinched, and she was instantly sorry and flew into his arms to kiss him and tell him everything else was flat and stale—but him. Yet they never sat down together to talk—to get acquainted—to let love grow, except for that unforgettable night at Jai Samand, in Rajputana, in the heart of India.

They had been inordinately lucky in incurring the favor of the Maharana of Udaipur, the "Sun of the Hindus," to whom they came with letters of introduction from a high British official. His Highness was just sending an expedition into the Aravalli Hills. His immense entourage—including camels carrying tents, and elephants and Arabian horses carrying courtiers—was ready.

His Highness looked deeply into the blue eyes of the American artist and divined there the mystic dreams and longings, the resignation and the patience of his own ancient race. He turned to Sharlene and saw the tragic hurt underlying the brave brightness of her spirit. His heart warmed to them both.

"I should like you to see the marble dams," he said. "They are for eyes like yours to see. Particularly Jai Samand. Jai Singh built it almost three centuries ago. It is the loveliness of a dream caught and hardened into marble."

Stuart and Sharlene were enchanted. Rarely was this privilege accorded to outsiders.

His Highness smiled at their enthusiasm. "You would like to ride an elephant, Mrs. Pennington?" He clasped his hands softly and a servant came running to receive his orders. Then he turned back to Sharlene: "I have sent also for a veil for you to wear against our hot Indian sun and dust."
